After 6000 Years?

by — A.E. Knoch (1874-1965)

The attractive suggestion that the Kingdom will come after six thousand years is also shown to be unscriptural by this fact: Were this the case our Lord would not have heralded it as near, for only four or five thousand years had elapsed since creation. Since comparing the whole of the Hebrew text of the book of Genesis with its Greek translation (which goes back to a Hebrew text a thousand years older) we have come to accept almost all of its additions and alterations. They commend themselves to everyone who examines them. In the Greek the ages of the patriarchs, when their sons were born, is nearly always a hundred years greater than in the Hebrew and our English versions. Consequently, the time from Adam to Christ is about a thousand years more, that is five, rather than four thousand. According to this we are near the end of the seventh rather than the sixth thousand, and, if this is the millennium, we are nearly through with it already!¹

ing Kingdom. All that we can expect to see is the trend of things among the nations, but especially among the Jews, for the presence of signs would indicate that we had missed our upward call.

The signs and portents that accompany Christ's unveiling will not occur during our days, and our expectation will be fulfilled before they take place. Faith, unsupported, unaided, unadulterated faith is the only intimation that is given of our grand and glorious expectation.

Those who watched for signs to precede His presence during all these many centuries missed its power, for the only signs they could have seen would be deceptive and disappointing, just as the dates that have been set and have caused so much harm, not only in the lives of the saints, but in their testimony to the world, which ridicules the faith and derides God's Word because His people have watched events and calculated years. BSN

To be sure, there are movements or trends in the world today which seem to point in the direction of these signs, and fill us with hope and anticipation, not only that the Kingdom is near, but that our deliverance is nearer, for we must be out of the way when God's indignation sweeps over the earth. But the actual signs are not for us and cannot occur so long as we are on the scene.

The persecution of Israel is no sign, for that has continued since they have rejected their Messiah. Wars are no sign, for these have raged again and again among the nations. Even earthquakes and famines and disturbances are no sign, since the Earth is seldom without them. It is the relation of these things to our Lord's Jewish disciples at the time of the end which will make them signals of the approach-

Christ and the Ages

[To R.B.:] The first three ages have as their featured purpose the development and display of creation’s rebellion. These ages were created by “Yahweh Elohim,” the “Creator of evil” (Isaiah 45:7, CV).¹ They are the antithesis to the successful work of Christ. He was and is not involved in the making of these ages: not the “disruption,” nor our own current “wicked eon” (Galatians 1:4).

The Son of God was not the One behind the “problem,” but rather, by contrast, was ordained to be the divine “Solution.” He was not the architect or head of the old creation, but is the Head of the New

1. “Former of light and Creator of darkness, Maker of good and Creator of evil. I, Yahweh Elohim, made all of these things.”

Creation.

God assigned the role of designing and executing these final two ages to His Son (Hebrews 1:2;² Ephesians 3:11³). This truth makes Colossians 1:15-18 understandable in light of Christ’s position as “Firstborn” (:15, 18) of the New Creation, which, when read with II Timothy 1:9-10 clarifies it even further.

Who is the Image of the invisible God, Firstborn of every creature, for in Him is all created, that in the Heavens and that on the Earth, the visible

2. “In the last of these days speaks to us in a Son, Whom He appoints enjoyer of the allotment of all, through Whom He also makes the eons” (CV).
3. “In accord with the purpose of the eons, which He makes in Christ Jesus, our Lord” (CV).

Readjusting the Saints

[Excerpt:] The majority of the saints today doctrinally stand on Circumcision ground. Their teaching and experience has been drawn from the accounts of Matthew, Mark, Luke, John and the Acts of the Apostles. Assuming that “the church began on the day of Pentecost,” they attempt to creedalize and practice the varying presentations and examples which follow. Now and then some of the teachings of the earlier epistles of Paul are included, notwithstanding the incongruous differences which are continually calling for modifying explanations that never explain!

It is the duty of ... the teacher to readjust the saints from this standing into the transcendent truth and grace of the Pauline revelation ordained for the present Secret Administration. This calls for mature wisdom and spiritual understanding.

Integrity to Say “I Don’t Know”

[Excerpt:] In our longing to defend God and convince others that there are answers to all questions, we can give the appearance that we’re know-it-alls. We’re not. We offer an immeasurable gift to others when we learn to say, “I don’t know the answer to that.”

Just because we have the “mind of Christ” does not mean we have all the answers of Christ. If we can represent Christ with humility, authenticity, and loving compassion, then we open the door for others to investigate His love.

In admitting that we don’t know something, we’re not telling people that there are not answers. They know that. And we’re not saying that we don’t care or are uninterested in their question. What we are saying is, “I will not bluff you. If you’d like, I’ll search this out with you. I think I might be as interested in the answer as you are.” God smiles at such integrity.

The virgin birth of our Lord, Jesus Christ, was an absolute necessity, judging from the genealogies. At first glance the opposite seems to be the logical deduction. Why should His descent be traced back to David and Abraham unless He was their natural Heir? Why go back to Adam unless He had a perfect pedigree? Authors include: John Cale, Joseph Hartill, A.E. to explain to myself at 20 is to recognize that every single person you meet is struggling. I didn't know that then. You tend to see other people as completely formed individuals. I still do sometimes. But to recognize that everybody you meet – every single one of them, no matter how expensive their suit is, or how serious their expression is – is looking for significance. They are trying to do the best they can and they fail regularly. They are there within their own particular battle of their own life. So cut them some slack for that. Don't let them off the hook, but recognize the shared nature of being a human being. Let people be themselves and make some allowances for them, and treat people a little more kindly as a result.

“Aiōnios Life”

[To D.R.:] The Greek word aiōn (αἰών) carries the meaning of “age,” while its adjective aiōnios (αἰώνιος) means “age-lasting.” Thus, “aiōnios life” is life that can last for an age or ages, while “immortality” (ἀφθαρσία – aphtharsia), on the other hand, is life that exists beyond the reach of death.

We might consider “aiōnios life” like a “patch” (or “fix”) that allows “mortals” to live extended lives, effectively “immortal” lives, until the Consummation, so that in experience some will live through the ages to the Consummation without dying again (a “second death,” as it were). At the Consummation God's pre-determined ages will end and death will be abolished, with the result that there is no longer any need for “aiōnios life.” In fact, technically speaking, after the Consummation there could be no such thing as “aiōnios life,” since there are no more “aiōns.”

So, as a believer, we certainly will have “age-lasting life,” however we will also have something far greater as well – life beyond the ages.

In other words, some are granted age-lasting life to carry them over to vivification. One who has been made immortal has no need for age-lasting life.⁴

Embracing Suffering

Life is a game of suffering that ends in death, and all the things that you acquire throughout life in an attempt to flee from the suffering will wither away in their graves along with you. The secret of this game is that the only things from this life you can take with you – the only things that will rise from the grave with you – are the intangible things that are acquired as a result of embracing your suffering and fighting through it. Meet your suffering head on and wear this duty as a crown, for in life, the things that you acquire from this battle may be invisible; but when you rise again you will see them as they are: riches far beyond any Earthly value.

The True Basis of Redemption

by — Arthur P. Adams (1847-1920)

This widely circulated work shows that Redemption is a part of Creation, and hence its success depends, not on the creature, but on the Creator. It is based on Job 14:15, where it is declared about God, “You will long for the creature Your hands have made.”

Cannabis

[Footnote:] “An honeycomb” – The Hebrew ya’ar never means “honeycomb,” but “a wood.” It is rendered “forest” thirty-eight times, “wood” nineteen times, “honeycomb” only here and Song of Solomon 5:1. It points to a dense growing wood or thicket; and it has been suggested that it was the cannabis indica, or hemp plant, producing the Eastern intoxicant hashish. This would produce an effect on the eyes, though it would subsequently dull the senses. Song of Solomon 5:1 would read “I have eaten my cannabis with my honey.” The Septuagint and Vulgate did not understand either passage, and the latter misled with “honeycomb” (favum).

Fragmentary Revelations

[Excerpt:] The path of transcendence which we now tread does not merely “discard” the signs of the coming eon, as languages [tongues] and powers and healing, but also abrogates prophecies and the gift of knowledge. The reason given is that these were but “installments” and, in the impending era (in which we now dwell), such fragmentary revelations will be unnecessary because God will have given a full-orbed prophecy embracing all knowledge. Such we have in this Ephesian epistle.

The Saving Power of Truth

by — B. M.

The Lord told His disciples:

Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

It is truth only that liberates mankind. He who harbors a delusion is a slave. He is caught in a net from which truth alone can free him. The pursuit of truth should be man's highest aim.

Many profess to seek truth. But among these are many who run from the truth when they see it. They fear truth while professing to love it. They fear truth for two reasons: it often conflicts with their greeds; it often conflicts with creeds.

People accept the beliefs that are in vogue in the world into which they are born. They grow up with these beliefs. Such beliefs become ground into them. They become intermingled with their associations and affections. They shape their habits of thought.

Their associations and memories are all closely connected with their inherited beliefs. [That s]uch beliefs are often preposterous and absurd and are readily recognized as such is presented for the first time in life, after one attains to mental maturity.

But beliefs that we have grown up with and that have been part of our lives, however preposterous they may be, do not seem so to us. They seem to be so real and matter of fact. When doubt arrives a great mental warfare begins within the individual mind.

The head says that the belief is false and the emotions say that it is right. The struggle is on. He finds it easier to believe what he knows to be false than to disbelieve it. He finds it hard to turn down his old friends and associates of the mind and heart.

Again, few men's love of truth is greater than their love of material gain. If truth threatens to curtail their profits or weaken their social and political positions, they lose their ardor for truth. Theoretically and secretly they may accept it, but practically they dismiss it, and openly they disavow it. Few men's principles are very strong when arrayed against their material interests. In spite of these things, truth will serve us to far greater advantage than the greeds and creeds.

No truth is made by man. Man only discovers truth. All truths are of God and are divine. Let us not discard or reject a new truth because it was discovered by someone else. All truths are of God. Do not set yourself against a new truth. To do so is sacrilege of the worst kind. Be ready and willing at all times to embrace all truths as these come to light. Only thus can the truth make you free. BSN

Who Is the Snatching Away For?

by — Clyde L. Pilkington, Jr.

Q: You mentioned, in your article “Christ’s Appearing and Israel’s Prophetic Clock” (BSN #567), that the Body of Christ will be called to appear with Christ in the Celestials, and this will pre-date the “snatching away” and Christ’s return to Earth. If this is the case, then who is the “snatching away” for? – B.R.

A: When we are resurrected to appear with Christ in the Celestials¹ this will bring an end to the present Secret Administration.² The long pause of the earthly Kingdom program will be terminated and Israel’s prophetic clock³ will once again be active, resulting in a resumption of prophecies being fulfilled. Much is left to be accomplished in Hebrew prophecy prior to the Millennial Kingdom.⁴ When all pre-millennial prophecies have been fulfilled, then the stage will be fully set for Christ’s glorious Second Advent.

The prophetic “snatching away” (referenced in I Thessalonians 4) will take place when Christ returns to take up His manifest presence (parousia)⁵ here on

The Salvation of All is the most clearly written testimony to God’s ultimate grace and mercy towards man that I’ve seen in print. – VA

I’m sure I’ll be referring back to The Salvation of All for years to come. The issues you addressed in the book need
